Providence Alaska House

Supportive housing and recuperative care for Alaskans in need.

What is Providence Alaska House?

Providence Alaska House will be a Supportive Housing and Recuperative Care (SHARC) facility in midtown Anchorage for low-income people aged 55 and older experiencing homelessness. The facility will include 45 permanent supportive housing units and six recuperative care units.

What is supportive housing?

Supportive housing offers people experiencing homelessness with a safe, permanent place to live. Wrap-around services are available on-site and the units operate much like an apartment building.

What is recuperative care?

Recuperative care units provide hospitals with a discharge resource for patients experiencing homelessness who need a safe place to heal. Patients may stay in the units for up to six months, depending on their needs and their provider's recommendation.

Wrap-around services

On-site case management and support services will be provided by:

- Cook Inlet Tribal Council
- Southcentral Foundation
- Anchorage Coalition to End Homelessness
- Catholic Social Services

Project timeline

Construction of the new facility is now underway. Providence Alaska House will begin accepting applications in April 2024 and will open in July 2024.
